

Alaska Quality Improvement Network (AQuIN)

The Alaska Quality Improvement Network (AQuIN) brings Alaska's Community Health Centers together to share resources, strengthen health information technology systems, and advance quality improvement efforts across the state.

Supported by Alaska's Health Center Controlled Network (HCCN), AQuIN helps Health Centers improve quality of care, enhance patient safety, strengthen care coordination, and increase operational efficiency through shared resources, training, and technical assistance.

AQUIN SUPPORTS HEALTH CENTERS THROUGH:

- Group purchasing opportunities that reduce costs and maximize resources
- Shared training and collaborative learning opportunities
- Data analytics and reporting to support quality improvement initiatives
- Technical assistance related to health information technology and clinical quality measures
- Collaborative learning and best practice sharing among Health Centers
- Financial assistance for population health tools

21 OF ALASKA'S COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTERS PARTICIPATE IN AQUIN:

- Aleutian Pribilof Islands Association
